

iiNet Voted ISP of the Year By Atomic Magazine Readers

iiNet Also Wins Gold Award in Money Magazine's 2006 Best of the Best and makes the 2005 Deloitte Technology Fast 50 List

6 January, 2006 – iiNet Limited (ASX: IIN) recently scooped several industry awards, including being voted ISP of the Year by Atomic Maximum Power Computing magazine. Atomic readers are PC and Internet enthusiasts and the annual awards, now in their fourth year, cover a variety of categories from console game and wireless manufacturers to service providers.

"While other publications nominate products for awards, chosen by editors, the Atomic readers are an incredible community and it is their passion and knowledge that makes their choices ones that really count," said an Atomic representative.

The Atomic Reader Awards were announced at a gala evening in Sydney on December 8, 2005.

iiNet also recently took out the Gold award in the Money magazine Best of the Best 2006 Awards for its broadband heavy plan which provides speeds starting at 1500 and quotas of 20GB on peak and 20GB off peak. For bundled customers on an exchange installed with an iiNet DSLAM, the speed increases up to 24000kbps and the quota is doubled.

Additionally, iiNet was ranked number 17 in the 2005 Deloitte Technology Fast 50, which recognises the most dynamic and fastest growing technology companies in Australia. The Deloitte Technology Fast 50 program, now in its fifth year in Australia ranks the 50 fastest growing technology companies, public or private, based on percentage revenue growth over three years and includes industry sectors such as communications, software and Internet.

iiNet was also a winner in the Deloitte Technology Fast 500 Asia Pacific 2005 Program, which acknowledges and honours fast growing technology companies across Asia Pacific.

"We're very proud to have been recognized by such a range of customers and organisations including Internet enthusiasts from Atomic, the popular Money magazine and the prestigious Deloitte Fast 50 program," said Linda French, general manager, Marketing, iiNet Ltd. "iiNet is firmly committed to delivering the best value, most innovative and high quality Internet and communications products and service, and our customers can look forward to exciting new developments in 2006."
